FAIR WEATHER FOR A DAY.

Weather Observer Jennings Tells Us of the Future.

Weather Observer T. B. Jennings says that there will be fair weather for the next twenty-four hours. The temperature at 7 o'clock this morning was 54 degrees, the lowest this month.

There is now a high barometer and it is responsible for the cool weather. During the month of May there was only 1.91 inches rainfall at this point. The usual rainfall for May is 5.24 inches. The largest rainfall recorded here for May was 14.1 inches, the lowest .57. The mean temperature for May was 63 degrees. This is considerably higher than the usual temperature for May, which is 63 degrees.

OFFERS $35,000.

The Florida Athletic Club Will Give That Much for this Fight.

NEW YORK, June 6.—The Florida Athletic club today cabled to James J. Corbett and telegraphed to Peter Jackson an offer of a $35,000 purse to be fought for some time during December. Joe Vendig said that he had increased the amount of the purse offered because he had heard that another Florida organization had offered a $30,000 purse. He said the Florida Athletic club would have the fight no matter how high it came.

CLEARING UP.

Senators Have Nearly All Defined Their Positions

With Reference to the Wilson Tariff Bill.

CUTTING SARCASM.

The Law Will Be a Fairly Protective Measure.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—[Special.]—Little by little the senatorial situation is clearing up. One by one the senators have responded to the demands made upon them and announced their position on the tariff bill. Forty-two are recorded as certain to vote for the bill. Mr. Hill will certainly vote against it, and Mr. Irby of South Carolina is still coquettish. As 43 votes are necessary in a full senate to pass the bill, it is obvious that Mr. Irby holds a commanding position, and so there are many earnest attempts to enlighten his understanding. His most intimate friends, however, laugh at the notion that his vote is doubtful and assure us that he cannot and will not reverse the record of his political voting against it. It is further announced as a settled fact that all the silver Republican senators and possibly a few others will favor early action on the bill. And finally some very ominous statements—not to call them threats—have been made by senators from the far west and indicated by them in sympathy with the bill. As to the Populists, Mr. Allen has given the first definite intimation from them and evidently with their consent. With free lumber, an income tax and a sugar tariff to suit them, they will vote for the bill, but it takes more evidence than we have yet received to know just what shape the sugar tariff must assume to suit them. At least five high protectionist senators have given it as their opinion that the bill will pass, but not before July and not without so many modifications as will make it a tolerably protective measure. The first important announcement of opinion and policy from the far west came from Senator Teller, the second from Senator Pettigrew and the third from Senator Allen.

For Revenue Only.
The last summed up in these words: "I do not believe there is a man on the face of the earth who is honest with himself who will not admit that the tariff taxation in this country should extend beyond the revenue limit. That it may be perfectly proper under some circumstances to levy your taxes within the revenue limit as to discriminate in favor of certain industries I do not now deny. I think that could be done, but protection cannot be levied for protection's sake. It must be a necessary incident of the raising of revenue. * * * This enlightened nation should refrain from taxing anything which is essential to the preservation of human life. All the clothing and food and necessities of life should be free from taxation, or at least the lowest rates of taxes should be levied upon them."

This is going further than the average Democrat in the senate goes, but is taken as the authorized announcement that the Populists are for the bill. The speech of Senator Teller was of such a nature that it has taken some two weeks for his colleagues to digest it thoroughly and figure out from it the future course of the silver senators. Of course he blames the Democrats and eastern Republicans alike for their monetary policy, declares that the working people of America began long before the last election and will continue, regardless of what party is in power or whether this or any other tariff bill is in force, if the present financial system is maintained. So far as he announced a definite policy, the political experts say its meaning is that he and the other silver senators want the bill passed soon, so that the people will the sooner find out how futile it is, as said senators have no doubt the people will do. Senator Pettigrew's speech was equally significant and far more pointed. He first fell on the Democrats with phrases that were the very refinement of vituperative eloquence.

A Warning From the West.
Speaking of the "tinware bugaboo" of 1890, he said: "He was a dreadful and awe inspiring monster; he was a Gorgon, a Moloch, a malevolent demon with hoofs, horns and a forked tail, eager to devour the working people of America. The masters of the dairy were never to be able to buy any more tin milk pails or pans, and one of the funniest Democratic cartoons presented the agriculturist at bay hewing milk pans out of a chestnut slab, so that the cows need not be milked on the ground. Everybody who heard any tin from a tin flute to a tin whistle, heard the everlasting refrain, 'The gobblins'll git you or you don't watch out.'"

After ridiculing Senator Voorhees quite sharply he gave this warning: "I wish to warn Democrats who are manufacturing goods for the market, for the American farmers, that if this bill passes the farmers of the west may join with the south, enact free trade and collect the revenue to run this government by a tax on luxuries and an income tax. From now on the west is going to have fair treatment, and that is all I ask."

This was nominally addressed to the Democrats, but he went on to apply it and a great deal more, and more pointed, to the entire east, winding up with this almost venomous paragraph: "I have a feeling which approaches contempt for those representatives of New England and the east in this body who in making tariff speeches have shown a silver lining to the dark cloud of their insincerity. For 20 years they have voted on every occasion to destroy silver and put the country on a gold basis, and having accomplished their object and raised the silver, cotton and wheat producers, and in fact all other producers, they now turn to us and smile and say, 'We are friends of silver.' I want to say to you gentlemen of the east, we are going to vote with you against this Wilson fraud from principle because we believe in protection to American laborers and American industries. You smile and say you talk about silver do not deceive us on that point. We despise your cunning and your duplicity. You want a tariff so that the things you manufacture shall not decline in price from the appreciation of gold, and you want a gold standard so that your credit may command more of our food products and raw material. Your position is inconsistent and dishonest."

Some Weighty Questions.
Cold type cannot convey the force of such language addressed with great vehemence and directly to the Republican side of the chamber. In view of these pointed speeches from the west, amounting to threats, many weighty questions are asked: Is there an understanding between the silver senators and the Democrats, and is there to be a new alignment? Is the division on silver and tariff, which is already more sectional than the slavery question was in 1860, to become much more sectional still?

WILL MAKE HER A PAUPER

Mrs. Stanford May Be Left Penniless By the Government's Action.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 6.—The claim for $15,000,000 filed against the Stanford estate by Attorney General Olney as a preliminary step to force the government's claim against the original holders of the Central Pacific grant, has caused the greatest excitement.

The late Senator Stanford's estate was recently appraised at $17,600,000. Since the appraisal heavy obligations have been met and it is stated the enforcement of the government claim would practically wipe out the estate, not only leaving the widow penniless, but cutting off all the beneficiaries under the late senator's will, including the endowment of $2,500,000 to the Stanford University.

The university would necessarily be sacrificed to satisfy the judgment. Mrs. Stanford has been in an anxiety to get the government's claim withdrawn, but the government's claim will be resisted to the fullest extent of her ability. An idea of the probable defense is given by Mr. Wilson, Mrs. Stanford's attorney. In an interview he said: "The opinion of the attorney general of the United States is entitled to a great deal of consideration, but it is a ruling on a wrong assumption. I am free to say that I do not think the government will ever be able to collect anything from the estate of the late Leland Stanford. The government is issued the bonds to aid in the construction of the Central Pacific road, but neither Stanford nor anyone else agreed to pay the government back. The bonds operate as a second mortgage. It is not a debt, and while the attorney general is perfectly right that in California the members of the corporation are perfectly responsible for the debts of the corporation, he is wrong in assuming that the mortgage is a debt."

"You cannot compel a man to pay a mortgage. If I borrow $1,000 on a piece of property valued at $500, the holder of the mortgage cannot compel me to pay it when it becomes due. He can foreclose the mortgage and take the property and that is all. So in this case of the Central Pacific Railroad company the government holds a second mortgage on the company's property of $80,000,000. The government by paying the first mortgage of $60,000,000 can foreclose the second mortgage and get control of the road. But it is not to be presumed that the United States would care to expend $120,000,000 to get control of a railroad that could be built for one-third that amount."

THAT BEAT AS ONE.

Four Pairs of Hearts Made Happy by Judge Elliott This Morning.

Two more happy, faltering souls were bound together by the sweet ties of wedlock in Probate Judge G. N. Elliott's court this morning. Wm. H. Heyl of Douglas county, and Villa S. Largent of Meriden, who have found that their hearts beat with a unanimity that cannot be slighted, appeared before the judge today and took the oaths that made them man and wife. They are aged respectively 25 and 19.

There were other couples, too, who have decided to tread the stony path of life together. James H. Crumrine, aged 23, and Ada E. Crumrine, aged 20, swore they were not related and were granted a license. Both are of this county.

John R. Hawke of El Paso, Texas, has shown his good judgment by choosing a Kansas girl, and was granted a license to wed Beale L. Holmes of Meriden.

Milton Player, aged 20, and Miss Elizabeth Reid, aged 18, were issued a license and will be married this evening.

YOURS FOR FREEDOM.

The Morand Family, Torn by Contention, Asks for a Legal Dissolution.

Only one case was filed before the district court today. Cora Morand asks for a legal separation from her husband, Charles H. Morand. She alleges desertion, failure to provide, cruelty, and a host of other things which are, as the country sale bills would say, too numerous to mention. Mrs. Emma McBryer of Hillsboro, Mo., is named as co-respondent, and two "sugar drip" letters from her to the plaintiff were filed in evidence. The parties concerned are white and live in Topeka. He is a plasterer, and they have four young children.

Missouri Democratic Editorial Association Has No Use for Cleveland.

WARRENSBURG, Mo., June 6.—The meeting of Democratic editors called for the purpose of organizing a Democratic State Press association was attended by quite a number of leading representative editors of the state.

Governor Stone was present and spoke at some length. During the course of his speech he criticized the "do-nothing policy of congress" in bitter terms and was applauded to the echo.

NEWS OF KANSAS.

The Fort Scott Paper Mill Enlarges Its Plant.

Salina Hackmen Still Fighting Objectionable Ordinance.

OTHER STATE NEWS.

A $10,000 Suit for Damages Filed at Wichita.

FR. SCOTT, June 6.—The paper mill company has found its present plant entirely insufficient to supply the demand for its product. In the past month, owing to the fact that most all other mills in the country, except a few gas mills, have been shut down for want of coal, the Ft. Scott company has refused a dozen car load orders.

It now has orders ahead sufficient to require the full output of the mill for thirty days. The plant was constructed originally as a five-ton plant, but it has been constantly crowding out six tons per day. The management has felt the necessity of an increase of capacity and last month decided to enlarge the factory. Four thousand dollars were expended for new machinery—a new engine, boiler, cooking vat, etc.

Two carloads of this machinery arrived Saturday and is being placed today. The boiler is stationary, and is the largest of the kind in the state, standing fourteen feet high. Its capacity is 80 horse-power. The works are operated night and day, except eleven hours on Sunday, which time is required to clean the three large boilers.

THE HACKMEN'S GRIEVANCE.

Salina Juries Must Stand Trial for Disobeying the City Ordinance.

SALINA, June 6.—It has been settled that the hackmen who do not obey the ordinance recently passed by the city will have to stand trial under the ordinance for misdemeanor. In the case of Messrs. Waite and Little, arrested last week, a motion was made to quash on the ground that the ordinance is unconstitutional.

Yesterday Judge Musser overruled the motion, holding that the police court, being a court of summary, special, limited jurisdiction should not decide questions involving the constitutionality of a city ordinance. The hackmen have expressed a determination to make this a test case and will appeal to the district court if their trial results unsatisfactorily.

A $10,000 SUIT.

Jessie Selover Wants Big Damages From M. A. Auld.

WICHITA, June 6.—A $10,000 damage suit has been brought by Houston & Boone as attorneys for Jessie Selover vs. M. A. Auld. It is alleged that on September 7, 1893, at the ten mile post west of Wichita, a team of horses belonging to Auld ran away and run over a buggy in which was Jessie Selover.

She alleges that she sustained injuries from which she will be unable to live. Auld had failed to tie up his horses, she says, and to this negligence charges the accident.

A String of Kansas Trotters.

EMPORIA, June 6.—Mr. M. R. Higbee has left here with a string of flyers for Freeport, Ills. The Wisconsin circuit will be gone over; also northern Illinois. The horses taken were: Susie G, time 2:10½; Mollie Sprague, 2:30; Eldridge, 2:30; J. C. L., with a 2-year-old record of 2:35; Cecil Wilkes, 2:30¼; Logan T, a fast green pacer.

Just Like a "Heavily" Railroad.

NEWTON, June 6.—Don Porter Hayn, son of Ebb Hahn, lost a finger while playing with a number of boys. The urchins were building a miniature railway, and the track gang was laying the rails. In trimming a tie to make the rail fit, a hatchet cut down on master Don Porter's finger, cutting entirely through it.
